WOULD PREVENT SHIPMENTS OF WAR MATERIALS

Financial Pressure Is Applied By United States

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The financial pressure of a principal mortgage holder was applied, in effect, to the shipping industry today by the administration to prevent shipments of potential war materials to Italy and Ethiopia.

An implied threat by the shipping board to become a tough creditor was reported to have been held in port several vessels already loaded with supplies for the East African zone.

Even as this move was disclosed, a sharp jump in exports to Italy during October was shown in newly compiled commerce department figures. Despite the frequent application of moral pressure by both President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, intended to prevent shipments of any character to the belligerents, the export figures to Italy were:

October, $5,821,366; September, $4,795,587.

It was on October 5 that the president proclaimed America's neutrality policy, placed an embargo on arms and ammunition, and first denounced the frequently reiterated policy of "discontinue all trade with the warring countries. Some observers saw the apparent failure of this moral pressure as leading to the move disclosed today.

With some banks and railroads deeply indebted to the government, the step aroused prompt speculation over how far the administration might go in using its creditor position to discourage commerce with Italy and Ethiopia.

The hinted threat to steamship owners and operators included in letters from the shipping board bureau to lines owing money to the government. In itself, the letter was given over principally to a reiteration that the administration's neutrality policy deeply opposes all commerce with the belligerents.

Revealing this action today, J. C. Peacock, director of the bureau and president of the federally controlled Merchant Fleet Corporation, said "as a government organization, the shipping board naturally would be in sympathy with a government policy so clearly stated as the one which seeks to restrict our trade with belligerent nations."

Governor Signs Monthly Payments To Schools Bill

Distribution Has Been On Quarterly Basis Since Last July First

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Governor Horner today signed a special session bill restoring immediately a system of monthly payments received by schools from the state distributive school fund.

Distribution has been on a quarterly basis since July 1 by virtue of a bill passed by the last regular session of the legislature. By the governor's action, schools in the state will receive $1,083,000 monthly during the biennium ending June 30, 1937.

The measure was included by the governor in the special session call.

The governor also signed two other bills affecting Chicago schools. One provided that if taxes in anticipation of which transfers of funds have been made to the educational purposes fund, are not collected in sufficient amount to effect a complete reimbursement to the working cash fund, resulting deficiencies shall remain as general obligations of the educational purposes fund until repaid from subsequent tax collections or until appropriations are made in the annual school budgets.

The other bill provided anticipation warrants shall be payable solely from taxes when collected and payment will be made in order of re-issuance.

Man Summons 2 Neighbors Then Commits Suicide

Lewistown, Mo., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Two neighbors he had telephoned asking them to come to his farm found David King, 70, retired well-to-do farmer, shot to death in the yard of his farm home near here today.

The neighbors, Floyd Smith and Harry Nelson, said King had phoned them this morning to come at 1 o'clock to assist with some farm work.

He had fired one revolver shot into his head. Members of the family blamed dependency over the death of his wife for the act.

'INVESTORS' ON STAND IN DRAKE TRIAL

All Admit They Are Still Waiting For Returns

Chicago, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Hopeful "investors" whose ten and twenty dollar bills the government charges added up to $1,350,000 for the benefit of the Sir Francis Drake Estate Association testified in federal court today in the trial of 41 alleged agents on charges of mail fraud.

All of them admitted they were still waiting for returns on their investments.

Among the first to testify was Mrs. Carrie E. Anderson, white haired, elderly, who said her contribution to the fund to recover the lost booty of Sir Francis was $14. But she admitted under cross examination that none of the defendants had urged her to take a flyer in the scheme. Mrs. Anderson came to the trial from Sioux City, Iowa.

She was followed to the stand by Anne Hartsock, Laurens, Iowa, who testified she was not only a contributor to the association's "trust" fund, but also a collector for it.

In the course of his testimony, Hartsock named 15 of the defendants, who he said were active in the collection of funds, which they turned over to him, and which he sent direct to Oscar M. Hartsock, alleged "boss" of the operations in London. Those named by Hartsock included: Pearl C. Palmer, Galva, Ill.

Hartsock said that all of them, including himself, believed in the existence of the 16th century sea rovers' fortune, and hoped they might one day get a slice of it. He said they risked their savings along with those of the people they solicited.

Early in 1933, Hartsock continued, he grew curious about the Drake estate and came to Chicago to get some facts. He saw Hartsock, he said, and learned little.

American Farmer Will Not Goose Step Knox Says

Chicago Publisher Says New Deal Policies Can Produce Only Class Warfare

Kearney, Neb., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher frequently mentioned as a possible candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, asserted tonight that administration policies, if persisted in, could produce only class warfare.

In an address prepared for delivery at a rally opposing the Republican campaign in this state, the Chicagoan said the Roosevelt agricultural policy—which he termed one of scarcity—could never be more than a temporary measure.

"First of all," he added, "the American farmer is not going to goosstep to the tune played by the bureaucrats in Washington, and second, the enforcement of a policy of scarcity is going to provoke rebellion in the consuming class of the industrial areas."

Ultimately, he said, such policy could only lead to "wiping the city people against the farmer, and produce a class warfare which will spell disaster."

He charged Undersecretary of Agriculture Rexford G. Tugwell with recommending class warfare in a recent speech in which he said the undersecretary declared: "We should succeed for once in establishing a farm-worker alliance in this country which will carry all before it."

TRUCK DRIVER KILLED

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Robert Winterstein, 25 year old Fowler, Ind. truck driver, was killed at midnight when his truck struck a Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad freight at Grant Park, Ill.

Five empty box cars were derailed and three burned as the truck, loaded with 20,000 pounds of paint and varnish, caught fire.

Bernard Belsch, 25, also of Fowler, Winterstein's helper, leaped from the cab just before the crash and escaped with a fracture of one hip.

CHINA CLIPPER AIRMAIL STARTS ACROSS PACIFIC

Giant Liner Carries Nearly Two Tons Of Mail

Alameda, Calif., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Airmail service across the Pacific began tonight as the first of a fleet of giant sky liners thundered westward Manila bound.

The majestic China Clipper, loaded with nearly two tons of "first class" and official mail, gave thousands a jarring thrill as it dipped under the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge cables in the takeoff. The cables are only about 300 feet above the water.

Spectators gasped at what appeared to be a daring feat. Pan American Airways' officials said the huge flying boat made the dip for the benefit of watching school children.

The silver winged sky queen started a mile run on the way at 3:47 p. m., Pacific standard time, (6:47 p. m. EST), dipped under the bridge cables and skimmed on through the Golden Gate.

Anchored near the Golden Gate for the occasion was a Clipper ship of other days, the Star of New Zealand.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, who read a message from President Roosevelt, gave the takeoff order after J. E. Trippie, president of Pan American Airways, reported the China Clipper was ready for service under the mail contract.

Trippie then relayed the order to Captain Edwin C. Musick aboard the Craft and the Clipper, an American flag ripping from its cockpit, skimmed away.

Almost at the same time, the second ship of the sky fleet, the Philippine Clipper, arrived at Arapahoe, Mex. from Miami, Fla., on its way here to enter the same service.

Farley announced the China Clipper's mail load brought a profit of $47,000 to the postoffice department. The post office gross revenue from the 115,000 letters carried, he said, was $63,000 and the maximum cost $15,000.

Howling Storm Hits Southern Italy; 20 Dead

Many Houses Collapse And Wires Are Down, Causing Many Fires

Rome, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A howling two-day storm left a trail of at least twenty dead and much devastation in southern Italy and Sicily tonight. Ten persons were killed at Serra San Bruno, nine at Catanzaro and one at Messina, Sicily.

Houses collapsed and wires were blown down, causing short circuits that started many fires, as the wind and rain, which started yesterday morning, scoured a large area.

Messina was in darkness after the electric power cables went down during the day.

Railroad lines were blocked by masses of earth and stone, electric car lines were halted and telephone wires were down. Southern Italy's vineyards suffered severely.

The constant rains flooded streams. Many rescue workers swam and used boats to save persons marooned in upper stories of houses.

It was feared that when communication lines were restored, a greater death toll might be reported. Officials said some fishermen might have drowned in the sea.

The storm forced postponement of the departure of King George VI. Greece for Athens, where he was to resume his throne.

Prize Calf Sells For $1.10 Pound

East St. Louis, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—An Aberdeen Angus calf which won first prize in the baby beef show at the stockyards here, sold at auction today for $1.10 a pound. Last year the champion brought only 77¢ a pound.

The calf was owned by Miss Luella Padgett, 15-year old high school girl of Kellerville, Ill. Under a profit sharing plan adopted by the 12th annual show, Miss Padgett received $784 of the $1,075 purchase price and the remainder went to the other entrants.

A Shorthorn yearling of Miss Mary Lake, 10, Fancy Prairie, Ill., which won the reserve championship in yesterday's contest, brought 31 cents a pound compared to 12 cents a pound paid for last year's reserve title winner.

FLYER INJURED

Rantoul, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Lieut. Carroll Williams of the Marine Corps was unconscious today at Chanute Field hospital from injuries suffered when his airplane struck a tree at the field last night. He was put in tonight flying time and field officials believe he was trying to land when the crash occurred. A board of inquiry was named to investigate the accident.

FABULOUS TIDE OF GOLD FLOWS INTO AMERICA

Financial Authorities Trying To Gauge Consequences

By Richard L. Turner.

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A fabulous tide of gold, pouring into America from the coffers of almost every arriving ocean liner, today had financial authorities trying, with some concern, to gauge the consequences.

In a month and a half, the golden inflow has amounted more than $100,000,000 as measured by the treasury's daily statements. In a year it has exceeded $1,728,000,000. In less than two years it has totaled more than $2,400,000,000.

The first and most important result has been an increase in the idle capital of the banks. Today they have on deposit with the federal reserve banks some $3,070,000,000 more than the law requires.

A credit boom could multiply that figure by ten in loans, many economists contend, while the gold itself could, conceivably, furnish the basis for an expansion of the currency.

The Federal Reserve Board has machinery intended to check the former, and, with the treasury, the latter as well.

Experts hold that the gold is coming to America first of all because foreign exchange rates are at such levels that the banks can buy the metal in Europe and sell it profitably to the treasury at the standing price of $35 an ounce.

Foreign exchange quotations, in turn, are at their present levels, it is contended, because unsettled European economic conditions, the war scare, and diminishing confidence in the franc and other gold currencies has brought a flow of capital to this country.

The influx of gold has all occurred since the legal gold equivalent of the dollar was reduced early in February, 1934.

Has Something To Tell Mussolini

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini probably will never know what one Peoria resident thinks of him.

A startled telephone operator couldn't believe her ears when she heard a voice say, "I want Dictator Mussolini at Rome, Italy."

While the call was being put thru, the thick-voiced subscriber hung up. It was the subscriber's turn to be startled in the morning. Department of justice agents called and spent five hours trying to find out why he made the call. He didn't remember very well.

PHYSICIAN DIES

Ursa, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Word was received here today of the death in his home at Marion, Ill., of Dr. L. F. Worley, a native of Ursa, who had practiced medicine for half a century. Funeral services will be held here.

TAMMANY HALL IN CONTROL OF NEW YORK CITY

Laguardia Forced To The Position Of Minority Mayor

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Tammany Hall, through the accident of death, was once more in control of the government of New York City tonight.

The death early today of Bernard S. Deutsch, Fusion president of the board of aldermen, automatically cleared Timothy J. Sullivan, Tammany's aldermanic vice-chairman, to the presidency and forced Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia to the position of minority mayor.

Deutsch's death gave to Tammany control of the full municipal assembly. The hall already held the board of aldermen. With acquisition of the comptroller's three votes in the board of estimate—the assembly's upper body—it gained a voting majority there of 9 to 7.

A special election to fill out Deutsch's unexpired four-year term may not be called until the ensuing general elections in this case the elections of 1936.

Mayor LaGuardia, in tears, declared the cause of "good government" had received a severe setback.

The death of the aldermanic president is the second vital loss to the Fusion party since LaGuardia assumed office in 1934. The first was the sudden death of Fusion comptroller W. Arthur Cunningham, who was succeeded by Tammany Comptroller Frank J. Taylor of the original Fusion majority of 13 on the Board of Estimate. LaGuardia now is certain only of his own three votes; the two votes of President Raymond V. Ingersoll of Brooklyn, and the single vote of President Joseph Palma of Staten Island.

Claims Teachers Should Insist On Teaching "Truth"

Professor Declares Schools Must Revamp Aims And Curriculum

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Prof. Earl R. Douglass of the University of Minnesota said tonight teachers should insist on their right to teach the truth.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the annual Illinois State High School conference, the Minnesota educator asserted they should quit their jobs rather than "continue teaching that the world is flat" merely because that might be the popular doctrine with local politicians.

"Like the reputable doctor who regardless of the fact that the patient pays the bill insists absolutely upon practicing his profession according to his training and conscience," continued the speaker, "the teachers must remember that while local taxpayers foot the bill, the professionally trained teacher of today is an educator and not a hired hand."

He said, however, that "free public education at public expense can be justified only upon the basis of the value to all the people."

He said that a great mass of citizenry voting on basis of ignorance, prejudice, catch phrases and campaign tricks was a distinct menace to American institutions.

"Not only must schools revamp their aims and curriculum," he added, "so as to protect intelligent citizenry but teachers and administrators must insist upon freedom to discharge this fundamental obligation."

Woman Charged With Murder

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 22.—(AP)—William Williams, 32-year-old traveling museum operator, was shot and killed as he lay in his hotel bed today, and police charged his wife with the murder.

His wife, 24-year-old Bunny Williams of New York City, a platinum blonde, was found in the closet of a room in a nearby hotel. Detective Leon Nowitzky quoted the woman as saying she shot Williams "because he was always beating me." She said he beat her in his hotel room last night.

A few minutes after Williams struck her in the face, the purported confession said, she took the gun from a suit case, covered it with a handkerchief and then shot him as he lay on the bed.

CHRISTMAS TREES

Minneapolis, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The state forestry department estimated today that 5,000 persons were employed preparing 1,500,000 Christmas trees and by products for the holiday market.

Trees will sell at from 25 cents to $5 a piece, depending on size, type and symmetry. The department figured the average retail cost would be 65 cents, indicating the infant but growing industry would bring nearly $1,000,000 to Minnesota producers this year.

Real Fish Story Being Backed Up With Affidavit

Miami, Beach, Fla., Nov. 22.—(AP)—An affidavit backs up this fish story. E. W. Tranter, retired navy captain, fishing in the Gulf Stream September 19, sneezed and lost his false teeth overboard.

Today Captain Olaf Olson, skipper of the Charter Boat Sea Hawk, returned to port with several fishermen and large quantities of red snapper. One of the fish, cut open, yielded the missing teeth.

Captain Olson turned them over to Miami Beach police, with an affidavit attesting circumstances of their discovery.

DOLE WILL END ON DECEMBER 1 OFFICIALS SAY

Work Program However, Over Million Short Of Goal

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Renewed prediction that the Dole would end December 1 came from the work relief high command today to contrast with simultaneous word that the work program at midmonth was 1,132,758 jobs short of the three and a half million employment goal.

A report by Harry L. Hopkins, relief chief, showed that on December 16 work had been given to 2,367,242 people. This represented a gain of 359,120 jobs over the week preceding that report, but likewise indicated that Hopkins would have to find 566,379 jobs for each of the two weeks remaining in the month.

Hopkins has said that direct relief will be available for work relief employees until their pay starts.

Aubrey Williams, assistant works progress administrator, insisted today, nevertheless, that no direct allotments would be made after December 1. To date 26 states have been told they have received their last direct relief allotments and Hopkins recently asserted that all others would be cut off "during November."

The "first" relief grants to the 35 states have not been made public.

The biggest "employment bulge," Hopkins had predicted, would come between October 28 and November 12. The November 16 employment breakdown was: PWA, 1,624,112; Civilian Conservation Corps, 539,403; other agencies, 203,727.

Claim Full Barrel Of Deadly Poison Mixed With Soda

City Health Commissioner Says Department Store Employee Careless

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A full barrel of deadly poison was reported today by Dr. J. C. Geiger, city health director, to have been mixed with baking soda sold at bargain prices to hundreds of San Francisco housewives.

A department store employee's carelessness, Dr. Geiger said, may have been responsible for introduction of the poison into the soda. At least three deaths have been attributed to the poisoned kitchen staple.

The health director said the discovery was made when the store owner turned over to the health department one of the three empty barrels of "baking soda" the store had sold in bulk during the past month.

He explained that an employee had informed him that two display barrels were refilled, as their contents were sold, from this barrel.

Dr. Geiger said a few pounds of powdered substance in the bottom of the barrel was virtually pure poison—the less active of the two found in the contaminated baking soda.

On the outside of the barrel the crude admonition, "do not touch or taste," had been lettered three inches high with black crayon. The barrel also bore another legend, "scouring powder."

The employee said the barrel was one of six purchased from a San Francisco salvage firm as "baking soda."

QUESTION PAIR IN SLAYING OF LE ROY SMITH

Police Fail To Find Any Motive For Killing

New City, N. Y., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Pressing their investigation of the mystery slaying of Le Roy Smith, 34-year-old farmer's son, authorities today kept up a continual questioning of two men, one of whom is the estranged husband of a young woman with whom the slain man had been friendly.

The two men were Luther Philpot and Carl Stottlenyer, who shared an apartment in New York. Philpot was described as the estranged husband of Mary Swope, 17-year-old New City brunette, who was seen frequently with Smith during the last several months.

Philpot and Stottlenyer were questioned all night.

The girl herself also was questioned more than two hours early today and then sent to her home subject to further questioning later.

District Attorney George V. Dorsey said the authorities had been unable to discover a motive for the crime, but were proceeding on the theory that jealousy played a large part in the slaying.

He said Philpot and his wife separated about six months ago after a year of married life. The girl lived in a large house in the residential section of New City with two servants. Her mother is Mrs. Nicholas Salamon, an artist, who lives in New York City, but who came here on weekends.

Prosecutor Dorsey said he was convinced Smith was shot and killed elsewhere and his body taken to the spot where it was found, in a field about 100 yards from the girl's house. A revolver was found under several inches of earth a short distance from the body.

Young Smith had been missing from his home in nearby Ladentown since last Saturday night when, his father, Stewart Smith, said, he was to have gone to Miss Swope's house for dinner.

Dr. Thomas Ryan, who performed an autopsy last night, said Smith had been dead from 24 to 36 hours before he was found early yesterday afternoon.

Father Of Grid Player Shoots Coach And Self

Parent Angered Because His Son Was Kicked Off Football Squad

Lake Charles, La., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Coach R. S. Killen of the high school football team here, and R. A. Russell, father of a former player on the team, were wounded critically today in a shooting in which Chief of Police S. J. Iles said Russell shot the coach and turned the gun on himself.

Chief Iles said the shooting occurred in a hallway of the school building, just outside the auditorium where Killen had been presiding over a pen meeting in advance of the Lake Charles-Abbeville game tonight. The contest was immediately cancelled.

While the meeting was in progress, Iles said, Russell whose son Clifford was dropped from the football squad last year for an alleged breach of training rules, arrived and sent for the coach.

As the coach stepped into the hall, Iles said, student witnesses told him, Russell fired a pistol at Killen, the bullet passing through his body just below the heart. Iles said Russell then put the gun to his jaw and fired once, the bullet ranging upward in the brain.

Hospital attendants said Russell had slight chance to recover.

Killen's condition was said to be critical and emergency measures were used to save his life.

7,510 Are Killed By Automobiles

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Traffic brought death to 7,510 persons in 86 American cities during the first 46 weeks of this year compared with 7,658 in the same 1934 period.

This death toll, reported today by the bureau of the census, included 184 the week ending November 18 and 219 the preceding week.

Topping all was Chicago with 21 compared with 20 the previous week. New York had 15 last week against 25 the previous week. Los Angeles 10 against 8, Philadelphia 7 against 6.

Fewer fatalities were reported last week by 37 cities than in the week before. No deaths were reported in 32 cities.

The Grand Coulee Dam

At last man is building something bigger than the Great Pyramid of Egypt. One would hardly believe it has required 5,000 years for him to achieve a greater engineering feat than the tomb of the Pharaohs, but that is a fact.

The structure that will outdo the Great Pyramid is the Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia river in Central Washington. This structure will contain 11,500,000 cubic yards of concrete, three times the size of the pyramid. Boulder Dam ranks third. The new dam in Washington will impound the largest artificial lake in the world.

It will require eight years to complete. It will rise 500 feet above bed rock and will be 4,200 feet long at the crest. The spillway will be 325 feet high and 1,550 feet long. It is believed the project will add 1,400,000 to the population of the northwest and increase the taxable wealth there three billion dollars. That's more than Pharaoh did with his pyramid, which was built only for the use of the dead.

An Altitude Record

The height reached by Capt. Stevenson and Anderson in their stratosphere balloon has been officially determined by the National Aeronautical Association. The big gas bag carried the men in their sealed gondola to a height of 72,395 feet above the earth, almost fourteen miles. The flight is considered a success in every particular.

All instruments were brought down undamaged and several records are yet to be studied and analyzed. But the army balloonists are assured of the world's altitude for a time at least. They exceeded the former high mark by two miles, or more than 11,000 feet.

The lowest temperature recorded was 78 degrees below zero, and indications were that the temperature was increasing above 80,000 feet. The men reported a visibility of 200 miles in every direction of the earth, which was spread out below them like a map.

The records obtained in the flight will be of major interest to science, but will make little difference in the conduct of life on the earth. On the heels of the record ascent comes word from Russia that soviet airmen flew to a height of eight miles, and found a temperature of 81 degrees below zero. The soviet are of course attempting to learn whether flight thru the stratosphere will be practical.

War Is Brutal

Twenty Italian planes flew over an Ethiopian concentration in a narrow gorge and killed 2,000 of the enemy.

The African troops had little chance against the planes. The Italians, of course, boasted of a victory that was nothing more than a slaughter.

But later Ethiopians attacked a couple of Italian tanks. They waited until the crews stopped the machines and got out and then set upon them. The twelve Italian tank officers and men were beheaded by the tribesmen. That, too, was a slaughter.

War is brutal as it is fought in Africa or anywhere else. There has never been a war fought by gentlemen, or without its aspects of savagery and cruelty. Whether hostile men come to close grips or fight each other with cannon and planes, they are always ruthless and without heart.

What Sherman said about war is as true today as it was when he led his forces from Atlanta to the sea. Weapons are even more destructive and nations appear even less scrupulous. The fifteen billion people who have been destroyed in war during the course of history present an awful indictment of humanity's chief device for settling disputes.

Rebuilding a Heritage

It was 60 years ago that the federal government first spent any money to conserve and build up its great forest heritage. In 1876 Congress appropriated $200,000 so that a forest agent could begin looking into the conditions of American forests.

Next year, by way of an anniversary celebration, the biggest tree-planting program the nation ever saw is to be pushed forward.

The great shelter-belt program in the grain states will hit its full stride in 1936, with 75,000,000 seedling trees to be planted along a 1,400-mile stretch of land running from Texas to the Canadian line.

In addition, the U. S. Forest Service and the CCC are going ahead with a program which in 1935 has already resulted in setting out 220,000,000 young trees in our national forests.

All in all, it is a great program. After having wasted his forest heritage for decades, Uncle Sam is at last taking effective steps to preserve it.

Gentlemen:

If the Jacksonville Daily Journal would publish all the news that people need to know, such as statements made on the floor of the United States Senate by such men as Senator Schall of Minnesota calling attention to a combined foreign element that is trying to seize control of the American Government such news as that I would subscribe for your paper right away, for that's the kind of newspaper I want. A. P. McInnis in Talk to Rotary Club Mentions Early Day Routes

A. P. McInnis, General Freight Agent of the Wabash Railroad, with offices in St. Louis, discussed the transportation in an address to the members of the Jacksonville Rotary Club yesterday.

Mr. McInnis opened his address with several interesting remarks about the first railroad in Illinois. "On February 7, 1827," he declared, "the Illinois state legislature passed the internal improvement act, appropriating some $30,000,000 for various improvements. Among the many railroads provided for was one designated the Northern Cross, now part of the Wabash Railway, and the first railroad in Illinois."

"Of the score of railroads planned none were carried far enough to admit of laying rails except the Northern Cross, which was to run from Quincy on the Mississippi River thru Meredosia, Jacksonville, Springfield, Decatur to the Indiana State line."

"Ground was broken at Meredosia, on the east bank of the Illinois river, late in August 1827. The ceremony occupied the entire day and the undivided attention of all the inhabitants for many miles around. The contractors having failed to gather a working force by offers of $20 per month and board had to go to Louisville to get men to build bridges. Their offer of $19 per month and board, with eight drinks of whiskey a day soon secured a full force. Strap rails from the east were brought up the river to Meredosia in the spring of 1828 and on May 9 track laying was begun—the strap iron rails being spiked to the ties with ordinary twenty penny nails."

"On November 4, 1828, the first puff of a locomotive was heard in Illinois. It was not much of a locomotive. It had a single pair of drivers, two feet in diameter, no cab, no bell, no whistle, but it made a great hit. Crowds swarmed into Meredosia clamoring for a ride on the 'thing' and audibly wondering what made its wheels go around. The 'thing' hauled a select party, including the oldest inhabitant, to the end of the eight miles of completed track and back again to the unbounded astonishment of the natives. The trip was somewhat delayed owing to the fact that the engineer was so overcome by the frequency of hospitable invitations to take 'something' in honor of the auspicious event that he had to be carried to a hotel to recover."

"Two trips a day were made between Meredosia and Morgan City, the distance of 12 miles being covered in two hours. The train would stop anywhere for freight or passengers. There were frequent races between the train and stages in which the stages often won as often as they were beaten."

"By the winter of 1829, the track had been laid to Jacksonville. The engineers planned to build the road north of the town, but the citizens were so eager to secure the possession of a real railroad that in obedience to public demand the rails were laid right down the principal street to the public square. Construction east of Jacksonville was started in 1840 and the first train entered Springfield on February 15, 1842."

Mr. McInnis also discussed federal ownership of railroads, improvements in rail transportation and other subjects of general interest.

Guests of the club included: A. R. Eyre, C. R. Huchett, Ralph Bridges, J. W. Marshall, E. F. Mitchell all of Jacksonville; M. G. Clark, division freight agent of the Wabash railroad of Springfield and C. E. Norris, division freight agent of the Chicago & Alton railroad of Bloomington.

Mrs. Lee Edlen of Meredosia was a Friday afternoon shopper in the city.

Justice Roberts' Wife Finds Out Who Made Her Husband Great... Government Gives Capital Window Shoppers a Rare Treat... Just Peer Through the Plate Glass and Get Lots of Information.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal and Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington.—In one of the capital's better interior decorating shops works an upholsterer who served on the jury which several years ago convicted Albert B. Fall of bribe-taking in the oil cases.

Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, wife of the supreme court justice who won fame in prosecution of E. L. Doherty, Harry Sinclair, and Fall—Fall alone being convicted—went into the shop the other day.

The upholsterer told her how he had been one of a minority on the Fall jury standing for conviction and how he had helped swing the others around.

"Lady," he announced, "if it hadn't been for me, your husband wouldn't amount to a dam!"

(Mrs. Roberts took it and liked it.)

Great Window Shopping
Your government and mine, which always is pulling quaint little surprises on us, has opened up some shop windows and is displaying its wares behind plate glass in the downtown shopping section.

That's a result of the policy under which your government and mine is grabbing every inch of office, store, hotel, and other space on which it can get its hands, even to the point of taking over big apartment houses and ordering all the tenants out so government executives and clerks can move in.

When it takes over a store with a lot of window glass on a busy street, it naturally figures it should stick something in the window.

It's a Notable Sight

Thus, now that the FERA-WPA Educational Division has moved into an abandoned sporting goods store at 1340 G street, it has filled the windows with a display of pamphlets about workers' education, emergency education, vocational education, and so on.

On top of this display are some little stuffed bunnies, little stuffed elephants, and little dresses which parents on relief were taught to make while undergoing FERA education. To say nothing of an autographed photograph of Mr. Roosevelt.

Down at 1423 F street the United States Information Service has a gaudier layout for window-shoppers, behind about fourteen feet of glass. There's a big chart of the government with dozens of strips of red tape pinned on it and the strips run from names of federal agencies on the charts down to corresponding pages on a lot of opened copies of the United States Government Manual strewn around. (The Manual is the official National Emergency Council book which tells you what the federal agencies are, what they're for, what they do, how they're organized—with charts and pages of questions and answers. It's come to be quite a big book.)

And You Can Spend $2
The backdrop of this window has some gaily painted pictures of the White House, the supreme court building, and the Capitol and it looks pretty swell at night when a big searchlight is turned on.

There's also a printed quotation from Mr. Roosevelt to the effect that people should know more about their government.

Naturally, a lot of people are lured inside, where you can buy the manual for $2. You can also get all the free service you want and if your questions about your government and mine can't be answered orally at once you can write them down on a special blank and the USIS will tell you later.

In case you're just lost, USIS will tell you how to find yourself again and it has maps (privately printed) to show you around Washington.

On a big bulletin board is a large map of Ethiopia, with clusters of little red pins, each of which represents 25,000 Italian soldiers, and clusters of little blue pins, each of which represents 25,000 Ethiopians. They had quite a time getting the colored janitor to keep his hands off those pins.

Watch for More of Same

Your correspondent probably will be running into other government shop windows when he least expects them and will report on same. Whether or not you like this present government of yours and mine, you at least must admit we never had one like it before.

One has a horrid suspicion that the first thing the Republicans would do, if restored to power, would be to close down the shop windows, tear down that map of Ethiopia, and throw away those pins.

GEORGE AND ALICE

Work, it has been said, makes Jack a dull boy, but it has proved to be one formula for success in Hollywood.
Alice Faye, Frances Langford, international radio star, and Patry Kelly, conspicuously featured with George Raft in Paramount's "EVERY NIGHT AT EIGHT," now showing at FOX ILLINOIS Theatre, are three successful girls who will tell you that film players have little time for party life. They'll also tell you that film workers labor while the world sleeps.

The girls, appearing as a "sister singing trio" in the film, were instructed to attain as much proficiency as "The Bowdell Sisters." Under the direction of Paul Metz, accompanist, the girls practiced three hours a night for ninety nights, making a total of 270 hours of constant working. All was in addition to their regular daily labors.

"EVERY NIGHT AT EIGHT" is the screen's first presentation of the amateur radio hour, popular programs on the air today. The story tells of the adventures which befall a group of young hopefuls when they rise from dismal failure in their first amateur contest hour to the nation's leading radio favorites.

Tickets today go to John E. Oert, 1524 South Main St.

WEREWOLF OF LONDON

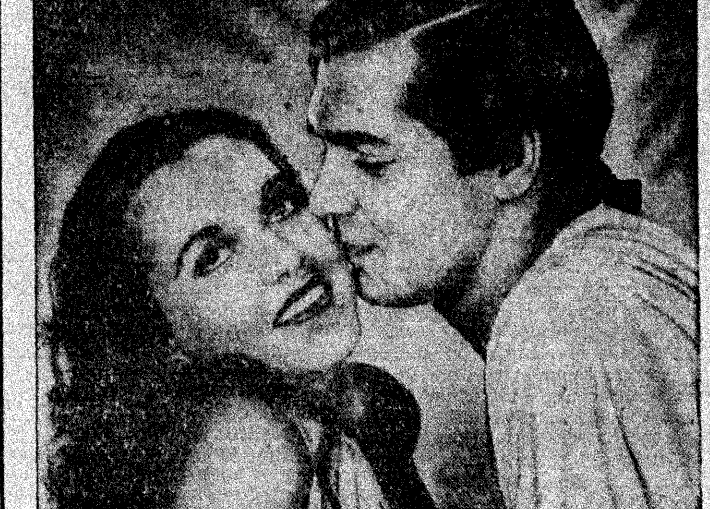

Remember "Dracula," "The Old Dark House," "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," "Frankenstein," "The Mummy?"

Well—roll all the thrills, chills and excitement of these pictures into one, and you'll have "Werewolf of London," which opens Sunday at the FOX MAJESTIC! "Werewolf of London" is a picture based on the famed creatures called "werewolves," creatures who are men most of the time but who become transformed into wolves each month during the full of the moon. It is then that they prowled the darkened streets tearing the life-blood from humans to satiate their voracious blood lust.

Henry Hull, one of the greatest character actors of modern times, plays the title role in this film. Warren Oland is another who is seen as half man and half wolf. Valerie Hobson is the wife of Hull and the high spot of the picture is the scene in which she sees the man she loves turning into a wolf and attempting to kill her. It is a gripping story of a British scientist who is bitten by a werewolf while on an expedition into the wilds of Tibet. And then on his return to his home in England follows his suffering and his murders.

Passes today for T. J. Williams, 2207 S. Sandy Street.

Government Stone Crusher at Waverly

PWA Puts 56 Men to Work in New Quarry to Get Out Material for Roads

The federal government has installed a stone crusher in the hills south of Waverly, and this week fifty-six men went to work on a PWA project to quarry stone for the farm-to-market roads being built in that section of the county.

With more than 250 miles of these roads to be constructed in the county, thousands of tons of crushed stone will be needed. The high cost of materials has caused the government to install its own crushers and do its own quarrying.

There is much rock in this county that can be used for such purposes. The crusher near Waverly is located in the Apple Creek vicinity, where hills of good stone are numerous. Scores of men from the county relief rolls will doubtless be employed in road building this winter.

Rogers Memorial Fund Chairman is Appointed Friday

Voluntary Contributions to Be Taken Here to Help Create Memorial

The Will Rogers National Memorial Commission yesterday announced appointment of Max Tschauder as chairman in Jacksonville and vicinity, in connection with the memorial campaign. In cities throughout the nation funds will be contributed voluntarily to establish a memorial to the great humorist and philosopher.

Mr. Tschauder has appointed a committee consisting of Harry Finke, Rev. Father Frank Lawler, Harry Hofmann, Rev. Glenn J. Schillerstrom and B. B. Ridgway to assist him with the work here.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker is director of the national memorial commission, with Vice President Garner as general chairman.

When Will Rogers died he left millions of friends who had become intimately through the stage, radio, motion pictures, newspapers, and magazines. They mourned the man and his philosophy—his kindness to mankind.

Thousands of these friends actively proposed memorials. No less than a score of organizations were formed for the purpose. These were merged and the Will Rogers Memorial commission was formed—a group of Rogers' friends from high government officials on down the line.

After Rogers' millions of friends have had an opportunity to make their contributions to his memory, the sum will be totaled. Then a group of well known Americans already selected, including John W. Davis, Charles G. Dawes, Henry Ford, Fred Stone, Alfred E. Smith, Owen D. Young, and others, with the help of public suggestions, will decide on the ultimate form of the memorials.

Naturally, the judgment must be indicated by the total of the subscriptions. But one thing is certain, the commission will sponsor no cold shaft or marble for this warm, friendly man. Rather, there will be living, continuing memorials projected to honor the charitable, educational, and humanitarian traits which were so beloved in Will Rogers the living man.

There will be no house-to-house canvass in Jacksonville to raise funds. But if you were an admirer of Will Rogers and wish to help a little, you have that opportunity.

Contributions to the fund are expected to range upward from a few cents. There is no limit, no definite goal. Contributions should be mailed or taken to Mr. Tschauder at the Fox Illinois theater, or to members of the committee.

Richard C. Bleloch Weds Chicago Girl

Former Student at College Here and Miss Bromell Married at Church

Illinois College has received announcement of the marriage of Miss Margaret Bromell to Richard Cameron Bleloch, both of Chicago. The ceremony was performed Saturday, Sept. 21, at 4:30 o'clock at the Church of the Atonement, Chicago.

The bride with her father was preceded to the altar by her two bridesmaids, maid of honor and little flower girl dressed in blue tulle, a niece of the groom. Mr. Bleloch was attended by his best man. Four ushers were also members of the wedding party.

The bride was veiled in white satin with draped veil. The bridesmaids wore blue velvet dinner dresses and the maid of honor a velvet gown of gold color. She carried a bouquet of flowers in rust and gold shades. Fall flowers in these colors were also carried by the bridesmaids.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Following this Mr. and Mrs. Bleloch left for New Orleans where they visited several days. From there they went to Guatemala and Honduras.

Mrs. Bleloch is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bromell of Chicago. She was graduated from Wellesley College in '34.

Mr. Bleloch was formerly a student at Illinois College, in '28. After leaving college he attended Chicago Central College of Commerce. He received his LL.B. degree from John Marshall Law school in 1931 and his LL.M. from Loyola University in 1932. Mr. Bleloch is at present connected with the law firm of Townly, Wild, Campbell and Clark, Chicago.

In a recent letter Mr. Bleloch told interestingly of their trip. Describing cities in Guatemala and Puerto Cortez, Honduras. Pictures were taken of typical scenes on the trip, with a movie camera. He also wrote of the trip across the jungle, through a banana plantation where they watched the inspector judge the fruit and cut the bunches with his machete, a razor-like knife which he skillfully wielded without any casualties, much to their surprise. He described the beaches, many of them very beautiful with pure white sand, and lined with coconut trees. They enjoyed swimming but were told afterward that there were sharks in the water.

At the plantation they were given a bunch of bananas containing from ten to twelve dozen, when they asked for a small bunch. After a nine days' trip they returned to New Orleans, and are now settled at 6109 Wintthrop avenue, Chicago.

Sheriff Takes One Assailant to Pen

Woods Leaves for Menard with One of Men Who Was in Shooting

Still carrying a number of shot in his left arm, Sheriff Kenneth Woods left at noon yesterday for the Southern Illinois penitentiary, taking with him one of the men who fired upon him more than two months ago. The prisoner, Charles Day, will serve an intermediate term at Menard on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Day pleaded guilty to the charge last week, admitting that he was one of the men present when the sheriff was wounded. Day claimed, however, that the near-fatal shot was fired by his companion who escaped.

The sheriff also took Wesley Miller to the penitentiary to serve a term for robbery. Sheriff Woods was accompanied by Deputy Wiley Cook and Turney John Bland.

Illinois College Battles McKendree in Wind-Up of Grid Season

Many Baseball Deals Are Announced as Minor League Meeting Ends at Dayton, O.

By Paul Mickelson
Associated Press Sports Writer
Dayton, O., Nov. 22.—(AP)—The auctioneer's hammer fell for the last time at the minor league baseball market today and the outcouners hustled back home for final conferences in preparation for the major league market in Chicago next month.

Deals involving at least a score of important big league players are certain to be announced at the Chicago mart, which opens Dec. 12.

As the minor league meeting, attended by every major league club, closed, baseball managers were offering odds with no takers that the Philadelphia Athletics had sold shortstop Eric McNair and outfielder Roger Cramer to Boston and third baseman Pinky Higgins to the Yankees and that first baseman Jimmy Fox would stay with the A's.

"It's a cinch Jimmy will stay there," said Jimmy Dykes, White Sox manager and a close friend of the Athletics home run hitter.

Dykes also said the White Sox had given Detroit a final "take it or leave it" chance to get Al Simmons.

Mickey Cochrane, a good salesman, is almost certain to get the check from owner Walter O. Briggs of the Tigers in Miami tomorrow.

Cincinnati picked up four minor leaguers and the St. Louis Cardinals released "Piggy" Phil Collins, veteran pitcher, to their Columbus farm in the American Association.

The Reds bought George McQuinn, southpaw first baseman, from Newark, Lee Stine, right handed pitcher, from the White Sox via the St. Paul club, Bill Raimondi, catching prospect, from Oakland, and Herb Walker, outfielder and brother of Gerald Walker from Detroit.

In the Stine deal, the Reds gave up infielder Joe Morrissey, who in turn, was sold to the New York Giants.

The Reds also signed Hank Severed, veteran catcher, to manage one of their farms, possibly Wilmington of the Piedmont league or Macon of the south Atlantic league.

The minors voted to hold the 1936 meeting at Montreal, Nov. 18 to 20. Only two important deals involving major league talent were officially announced.

Pittsburgh sent catcher Earl Grace, pitcher Claude Passeau, and cash to Philadelphia for catcher Al Todd. The New York Giants traded pitcher Roy Parmelee to the St. Louis Cardinals for second baseman Burgess Whitehead.

FAN BREEZES

By Ernest Savage

Macomb fans are already beginning to wonder if Western Teachers and Illinois College basketball teams, co-champions of the Little 10 conference last year, will meet on the court this winter.

The question was put to Athletic Director LaRue Van Meter, who also coaches the basketball team the other day, and Van Meter's answer was: "We may play them sometime—but we won't play them this year."

Pick Boxers From 3 Camps For Tourney

Jacksonville, Rushville And Camp Point Teams Are Selected

Boxing teams from three of the six camps which will send teams here for the district CCC tournament to be held at the Illinois School for the Deaf gymnasium beginning next Monday night, have been selected, according to word received here today from First Lieut. Voges, in charge of the athletic program in the six camps.

The tournament will open Monday night with the preliminary bouts, and will wind up Tuesday night with final and semi-final bouts in each of the six divisions in which championships for the area will be decided.

Three Johnston City boys head up the Jacksonville camp team, according to the selections announced here.

Frank Sine, heavyweight, Martin Suter, welterweight, and Wayne Johns, featherweight, have been selected to carry on for the local team. Carl Hayden, St. David, and Carmen Rocotello, of Chicago, also have been nominated for the featherweight division.

Ivan Fitzsimmons, a local youth, has been named the first man on the lightweight contingent of two boxers for the local camp, sharing honors with Frank Zimmerman, of Warsaw.

Leon Robinson, of Beardstown, and Angelo Sterovich, of Farmington, will be the middleweights, and Ivan Storey of Nauvoo will be the lightweight.

Camp Rushville has named all but the heavyweight and lightweight contenders, selecting For for the 160 pound division, Kroezer, rated as a slashing middleweight, Neubauer as a welterweight, and Young in the featherweight division.

Two boxers remain to be selected for the Camp Point team also. Donald Nance of Cowden has been designated as the heavyweight, Raymond Mohl as the middleweight, and Russell Berton, of Champlain, will fight in the lightweight division, and Harley Bishop, of Iowa, is slated to fight in the featherweight class.

PLACE—I.C. Field.
TIME—2:00 P.M.

A share of the championship in the Illinois Intercollegiate conference will be at stake here Saturday afternoon when McKendree College's Bearcats, undefeated but tied once in the league, take the field against Illinois College's Blueboys, who are on the threshold of coping another second place in the league. The kick-off is slated for two o'clock on the Illinois College field, and will bring to a close the season for both eleven.

Led by the galloping and elusive "Spike" Wilson, the Bearcats will put on the field a team which is heavier than the Blueboys, and one of the fastest teams in the conference. Pre-battle dope indicates the issue will be finely drawn, in that it will be a battle between the Blueboys and the Bearcats, who are on the verge of a touchdown away on a touch-down gallop or two, and the Bearcat problem of choking off the Blueboy power which during the last few weeks of the season has mounted to a new all-time high.

Prospects of one of the largest crowds of the season also loom ahead. The field is in fair condition, slightly muddy as the result of rains and freezes and thaws, but not muddy enough to get a football slippery enough to prevent passing. The weatherman has promised fair and warmer weather, another item which may go a long way toward determining the victor in this fumble may be a determining factor.

Blueboys in Good Shape

Illinois' players are in the best condition they have been for some time, and have recovered one of their crutches. Sammy Mangieri, whose inspiration was the spark that carried the team to a victory over North Central at Naperville 18 to 6 came back to the squad this week, but may not get in the game for more than a few minutes. His shoulder injury has healed, but there is some doubt that the shoulder is at full strength now.

Only Nick Watts of the regular starting line-up is out of the game definitely. He has been on crutches all week, and will have to watch the game from the sidelines.

Coach Ray Nussipickel has decided upon his starting line-up with the exception of the fullback position. Jack Hartong, freshman from Springfield, and Fred Coleman, senior will be at end, and Meefert Kurtz and Abe Federis will be at tackle. Willie Munger and Vernon Ford will be the guards and Lou Davis will be at center.

Tony Donat, Ray Smith, and Russell Spuehr are almost certain starters in the backfield, with either Ed Hansen or Sammy Mangieri starting in the other position. The Blueboys lost one reserve player in Thursday night's work-out, at least temporarily when Bill Jones, end and center, strained his ankle when he came back to the ground after snagging a forward pass during practice.

Sounds Like Campaign

Illinois' defense has been rigged up to stop Wilson, and all week long the cry has been "Stop Wilson and beat McKendree". The Granite City flash has pulled two games out of the fire for the Bearcats this year, running 70 yards against Southern Teachers in the final quarter to bring about a tie and thus preserve the McKendree chances for a Little 10 championship, and he dashed nine yards through the North Central line to register the only touchdown of a game in which the Cardinals outgained the Bearcats.

Steve Kole, who assisted Van Meter at Johnston City when championship teams kept bobbing up, and who succeeded him there and later went to Edwardsville, was a visitor on the campus the other day. Kole expected to be back today to watch the Blueboys and McKendree go after each other.

Greenfield has set the date of its annual mother's banquet for the football players for Dec. 4. Two nights later the boys will play a basketball game, but from what we know about that banquet, we'd say they would waddle through it.

Roodhouse is a big hearted football town. It is not too small to have only one coach, as was proved the other night when Coach Foster Keagle came back from Harrisburg to give the main address at the annual banquet. The ovation the fans gave Keagle indicated that he could be elected mayor, alderman and be appointed chief of police all at once.

They also gave their home town coach, Mason Campbell, a great big round of applause for bringing home a championship this year.

White Hall, according to the dopsters who have been following the basketball lads in Greene county, is the team to watch in the fight for the south half championship of the Illinois Valley. Bierman has a large number of the players back this year who played last year, and has landed a few good cagers from Murrayville's sectional runners-up last year, and three year high schools in the county.

The best sport of the week, according to an Associated Press dispatch, is Harry Shuford, Southern Methodist University's great running and blocking back. He was interviewed the other day, and when asked what his chances were for making the All-America team this year, he said:

"It would be nice to make the All-America, but Bobby Wilson, deserves it more than I. As long as I can block for him and get him loose, I'll be happy."

Jay Wyatt, who formerly made the collegiate circuit for Spaulding and is now assistant to the president of the Chicago plant, tells a story on Francis Schmidt, which prompts us to ask who is coach of the Ohio State football team. Early in the second quarter of the Chicago game, Coach Schmidt sent two Ohio subs into the game but Capt. Gomer Jones of the Buckeyes refused both boys and they were ordered back to the bench.

In the third quarter, two more substitutes were sent on the field by Schmidt and again they were sent off the field by Jones. Finally Schmidt sent a player into the game and told him to report to the officials and take his place, regardless of what Jones said.

Jones then asked the officials to take him over to the bench so that he could talk with Schmidt.

"I want that fellow in there," shouted Schmidt as soon as Jones was within hearing distance.

"I don't," answered Jones. So the player was withdrawn again.

Although coaches make the substitutions from the bench, the rules require the approval of the captain for all substitutes. If the captain does not give his assent there is nothing for the referee to do but to send the substitute back to the bench. It is not often, however, that a captain has the temerity to refuse a man sent in by a coach.

Spero Costas, Canton, Ill., will lead the 1936 Butler University football team. He is a quarterback.

Mrs. William Kinnert of near Alexander was shopping in Jacksonville yesterday.

Charles Bartz of Waverly was a Friday business caller in Jacksonville.

Important Grid Games Today

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
New York, Nov. 22.—In many respects and on a number of the waiting fronts, tomorrow's imposing football formations will furnish the climax to a campaign marked by greater or competitive excitement, more extraordinary developments, plus bigger and better arguments, than any we can recall since the Carnegie foundation abandoned its well known "scouting system."

There's another and double-barreled week of competition ahead, with several vital issues to be settled, especially in the south, southwest and the East. New Year's Day, in one bowl or another, beckons to the more successful or ambitious of our college aggregations. The All-America master-minding has yet to be completed.

Nevertheless and with no interest in post-season affairs, the Big Ten will wind up its spectacular season tomorrow with at least 150,000 spectators looking on. Equally unconcerned about anything except the immediate business in hand of the prospects for next year, 50,000 will see Harvard and Yale celebrate the 60th anniversary of their gridiron rivalry at Cambridge, Princeton and Dartmouth, unbeaten and untied, will battle for the eastern "ivy league" championship before the 60,000 at the biggest crowd ever handled in the Tiger stadium.

The traditional "big game" of the Pacific coast season involves something more than a rivalry going away back to 1822. This year it finds the California Bears, unbeaten and untied, staking the Rose Bowl nomination against Stanford's challenge before a crowd of 90,000 at Palo Alto. Meanwhile those two super-charged powerhouse of the southwest, Texas Christian and Southern Methodist, 85 move along the hazardous national championship trail. They must beat Rice and Baylor, respectively, tomorrow to keep their records unblemished up to the point of head-on collision next week.

Franklin Upsets Ashland Five-22

Franklin, Nov. 22.—Breaking an eight year losing streak, Franklin tonight came from behind in the final quarter of a nip and tuck basketball game to defeat Ashland high basketball here 25 to 22.

Ashland's second string kept its record clean by pulling away in the last half to beat the Franklin reserves by an identical score.

Falling behind in the first quarter, 15-7, Franklin spurred in the second quarter to come within a single point of Ashland at the end of the half, 19-18. Neither team tallied during a torrid third quarter, both missing shots, and Ashland took a three point lead shortly after the final quarter began. A basket by Rawlings and another by Tranbarger put Franklin in front. The victory was the first Franklin marked up over Ashland in eight years.

The box score:

Athletics Are Not For Sale

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia American league baseball club, laughed today at a report that the Athletics were to be sold.

"So they're selling the whole ball club now, grounds and everything," Mack said. "Well, they can't sell any more than that, can they?"

"No, the club isn't for sale," he added. "I never heard about it, anyhow. And it would seem that I would, wouldn't it?"

The report gained circulation after a report that Jimmy Fogg, Eric McNair, Pinky Higgins, and Roger Cramer, four Athletic stars, had been sold.

Two Lettermen Back For Hawk Quintet

Coach Bierman Has Them All Guessing

Minneapolis, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The football world wondered tonight—Wisconsin especially—what new machinations Coach Bernie Bierman was up to in behalf of Minnesota.

Coach Bierman, recognized offensive strategist, who has grown substantially still foster since Idaho knew him as the Grey Fox, was an enigmatic man as the Gophers drilled for the last time this year. A ride was developing.

Special offensive significance attaches to tomorrow's Wisconsin-Minnesota battle because the Gophers, in their last game, don't need to hide anything and last year's tricks against the Badgers are still fresh in memory.

Last season the Gophers dismantled the Badgers, as well as packed stands and experts, by throwing touchdown passes to Dick Smith, tackle. One brought an immediate score. A second carried up to the door step.

Some say Bierman, with another Big Ten championship practically in the bag, will order the pass to Ed Widseth, opposite tackle, for variety and the sake of flourish.

In the minds, to be sure, of 40,000 fans or more, awaiting the juggernaut's last attack of 1935, lay anticipations of something fast and fancy, like the 40 to 0 methods exercised over Michigan. But no one predicted a similar score.

Tomorrow's tilt, coming as it does against a traditionally stubborn rival, also offers final opportunity to compare this Gopher show with last year's dominant outflow. A factor is gathering supporters that this team is better because it's faster.

James Lawson of the Murrayville community was a caller in the city yesterday.

Old Age Pension is Facing Revision in Senate Next Week

Changes May Become Necessary in Order to Get Bill Through Both Houses

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Prospects increased today that the old age pension bill, which is developing a troublesome status, might have to be drastically amended in the senate next week.

Rep. Reuben G. Soderstrom, president of the State Federation of Labor, declared that the bill as passed by the house last week will not provide $30 a month to pensioners after January 1 even if the federal social security act survives court tests.

"A state old age pension act should be independent and should operate either with or without federal funds," said the Republican legislator from LaSalle county. Soderstrom voted against the bill on the ground that a better pension system is provided in the original law enacted by the regular session in June.

The administration bill, on which the senate is to act next week, provides that the state will pay $15 a month to destitute persons of 65 and over, with the expectation that the federal government will contribute an equal amount to make the total $30.

Soderstrom told the house this week that the federal social security act provides that the funds from Washington, to be paid quarterly, will be only half the amount the state spends. That is, if the state appropriates $15 monthly for pensions, the federal will reimburse the state for $7.50 for the amount spent.

"They ought to kill the whole bill and go back to the June law," he asserted.

Mark Twain Bill is Caught in Assembly

$2,500 Bill Cannot Be Enacted in Time for Use

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Mark Twain's centennial will be celebrated November 30 without the benefit of a state commission and a legislative appropriation asked by Governor Horner.

The governor's bill to authorize a commission "to prepare plans for the observance" of the 100th anniversary of the birth of the writer and humorist is still on third reading in the house.

The centennial is a week from tomorrow. The bill can't be passed by the special session until a week later, if it now is passed at all.

State-wide observance of the Mark Twain centennial was Mr. Horner's own idea. His birthday also is November 30. The governor placed the matter in his call for the special session, planned to appoint a special commission and issued a proclamation asking that special plans be made by schools and civic organizations.

The bill, carrying an appropriation for $2,500, was introduced November 12 by Rep. Thomas P. Sinnott, Rock Island Democrat, during the third week of the session. Since then scant attention has been paid to it.

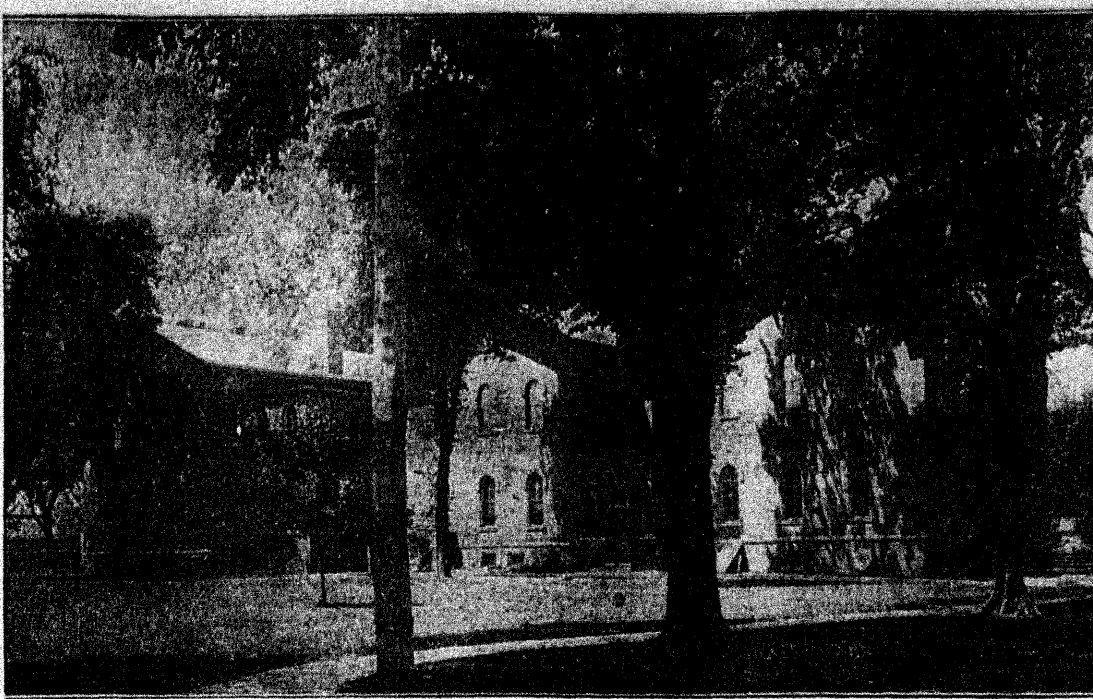

Boy, 16, Sentenced To Die in N. Jersey

St. Holly, N. J.—(AP)—A rosy-cheeked boy of 16 today faces death in the New Jersey electric chair.

He is John Cimmiengo of Burlington who last night was convicted of first degree murder with George Hildebrand, 24, in the slaying of Herman Eller, 60, Florence poultry farmer, in a robbery at his home. Sixteen is the minimum age at which a person can be put to death in the state.

The youth trembled slightly as Judge Frank A. Hendrickson pronounced sentence of death in the electric chair at Trenton during the week of January 5.

This Was a Good Building Back in 1870: A Hazard Now and Should Be Replaced

Lafayette Public School—a rambling two-story building in the second ward, built piece-meal as the need for additional room arrived.

Four rooms were built in 1870, almost entirely of wood construction. Twice since that time other rooms have been added. The Lafayette school as it stands today is a relic; poorly lighted, poorly ventilated as compared to modern buildings; certainly a building that comes under the class of "fire trap."

Wooden stairways, dried out by the years; stairs worn smooth by the traffic of thousands of young feet; stairways that creek with their daily load. Stairways that fire could clog with smoke and flame in a few minutes, are a part of the Lafayette school. Janitors and teachers try to keep the building clean. But it is like an old dilapidated house—the crevices are a catch-all for dust. Only a new building can provide sanitary quarters for the second ward children.

On Tuesday, November 26, Jacksonville fathers and mothers will have something to say about these conditions; their voices can demand and get new buildings for both second and third wards. Their votes at a special election called for Tuesday can approve a bond issue amounting to not more than $125,000, to match a grant of $92,454 offered by the Public Works Administration.

For the sake of safety, if nothing more, Jacksonville voters should approve the new school buildings.

Printing of Bible is Topic at MacMurray

Rev. M. M. Blair Addresses Students at Chapel Service Friday

Rev. McKendree Blair of the MacMurray college faculty was the chapel speaker at the college Friday morning. "The most important cultural influence in the world of English speaking people was the printing of the Bible in English," said Rev. Blair.

"We can scarcely realize today what a struggle it was back in the early sixteenth century to get the text from the Latin and into the tongue of the common people and the hands of the man on the street."

"The struggles of these early translators have been well repaid. The Bible within the reach of all men has had an inestimable influence on art, music, economic conditions, social and political life."

"And this year we are celebrating the four hundredth anniversary of the printing of this first English Bible and so this great Book which has grown out of man's upward seeking for God, and of God's downward seeking for man remains our heritage today."

State Furnishes Machine to Take Samples to Prepare for Resurfacing

Employees of the state highway department, in co-operation with the city engineer, were busy yesterday testing the foundations of the pavement on the public square to determine what will be needed for the resurfacing project. The testing is done by a special machine owned by the highway division.

This machine operates a powerful circular drill that cuts a hole thru the entire pavement, extracting a core as a sample of the materials used in the construction. The pavement now on the square is of brick, with some sort of concrete foundation. The testing is to determine just what is in this foundation and whether or not it will stand up under a resurfacing job.

The city engineer requested use of the machine to test the pavement. The resurfacing project will be financed thru the PWA and motor fuel tax money. It is hoped to do the work next spring.

Girl Charged With Murder Makes Plea

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Vera Stretz stood silent today while her attorney entered a plea of innocent for her on a charge she murdered Dr. Fritz Gebhardt, German exporter.

Officials accused the young secretary of shooting Dr. Gebhardt in a fit of jealousy and still sought the "mystery woman" he killed with by telephone shortly before he was slain.

"We have clues to her," William O'Rourke, assistant district attorney, said.

Miss Stretz preserved her silence. Police attributed to her a gasped "Yes, I did it" when they found her cowering after the shooting on a fire escape in the hotel where she and Dr. Gebhardt lived.

Her attorney, Samuel Leibowitz, entered the plea.

A friend of Gebhardt commented today that "there was a masculinity about him which appealed to the ladies and he seemed to get along well with them. He was a very vital person."

Begin WPA Work On Scott Projects; 200 Men Employed

Relief Load Increases; Other News From Winchester

Winchester, Nov. 22.—There is now a total of about 200 men in Scott county employed on WPA projects, according to figures given out today by Emerald Taylor, manager of the Federal Re-employment Office for Scott county. All of the projects underway are road projects and provide for the graveling of most of the important secondary roads of the county. The county superintendent of highways, J. A. Young, stated that three projects have been commenced for the improvement of the state-aid roads in the county. They are: The graveling of the road running east from Winchester into the Hart's vicinity, the graveling of the road south from Winchester through the Peak neighborhood to Claywell school house, and graveling the road east of Bluffs to the county line. The rock crusher south of Glasgow is being operated as a part of these projects to provide crushed stone for the roads. As an additional source of supply a gravel pit has been leased by the county on the Hazenkamp farm in the north part of the county.

Projects have also been commenced by 4 road districts in the county for the improvement of farm to market roads. These are: District No. 5, in the northeast portion of the county, employing 21 men; District No. 4, in the vicinity of Winchester, employing 27 men; District No. 2, in the vicinity of Alsey, employing 26 men; and District No. 1, in the vicinity of Manchester, employing 19 men. A project is also under way which will gravel the road from Winchester to the pumping plant for the city of Winchester which is located on the Groat farm south of the city.

It is expected that many more men will be put to work as soon as additional projects are approved by the state office.

Relief Load Shows Increase

Despite the fact that 161 relief cases have been taken from the county relief rolls since the inauguration of WPA projects in the county, there have been 60 new cases added to the rolls since the first of November.

County Administrator of Relief Guy R. Coddling stated that the increase this month has been due primarily to the rainy and cold weather. However, it was stated by Mr. Coddling that the WPA projects had resulted in a net decrease of about 100 cases and that this number will be enlarged by recent assignments of men to projects which have not yet been certified to the local office.

Fascists Threaten American Doctors

Rome, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Two American physicians protested to the American consul in Milan today that they had been threatened by fascists, who took them for "Sanctionist Englishmen."

In a report to Talbot Smith, the consul, Doctors Mersch and Bollman of the Mayo Institute, Rochester, Minn., said they were driving their automobile with their wives through the university town of Padua when students spotted their British license plate and menaced them.

The car was surrounded and one driver slashed before police intervened, the American said.

Smith reported the protest to Ambassador Breckenridge Long here, but the officials did not signify what action they intended to take.

Four members of a Manhattan string quartet cancelled a Rome concert engagement and hurriedly left the country when they, too, were taken for Englishmen and attacked because they failed to salute a funeral procession of a blackshirt.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DANA WESTBROOK, born and reared abroad, comes to make her home with her grandmother, aristocratic Mrs. WILLIAM CAMERON, whom Dana has never seen.

Twenty-one years before, Dana's mother eloped with the man she loved, leaving her sonless and an infant daughter, NANCY WALLACE. Young Wallace divorced his wife and married DANA WESTBROOK. A year later their daughter, Dana, was born, and given the name of her father.

After the death of her parents, Dana was fostered to come to America to live with her mother's family. She is received cordially by her great aunt, MISS ELLEN CAREW, but meets a cold welcome from her grandmother and her half-sister, Nancy. Nancy's bitterness and the gloomy atmosphere of the old place have a sobering effect. Dana thinks unhappily, "I shouldn't have come."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

THE sun came flooding in through a deep window. Close by, a bird was singing gaily. Dana, lying in the great canopy bed, lifted her young arms high in sheer elation. A smile curved her mouth.

In a sudden rush of feeling Dana thought—"It was ridiculous getting emotional last night. They'll like me soon, and I'll like them. At least, I'll try awfully hard."

Water was running in the tub presently in the adjoining bathroom, and Dana was singing blithely.

Across the hall an unhappy old woman listened to Dana's song. After a while she crossed the room and closed the transom. But she could still hear the words: "We'll sing a little, dance a little, love a lot. . . . living in the middle of the moonlight."

The singer stopped abruptly and Mrs. Cameron sighed in relief. The girl was evidently a romantic creature. Like, like—she wouldn't complete the thought. But feelings, ideas that had been lying dormant through the years were crystallizing under a new impetus. Perhaps it was true that she had to direct romance. Perhaps it had been partially her fault that Dana's mother had wrecked her life and brought disgrace to a proud family name.

This girl seemed pliable enough. Much more so than Nancy. There was a stubborn one for you! Apparently in European schools they taught respect for one's elders, if they taught nothing else. They had done very well by her granddaughter. And the girl was beautiful. It was going to be quite satisfactory to see Susan Weatherford's face when Dana was introduced to her and her two ugly daughters.

Old Mrs. Cameron almost chuckled. She must have a talk with Ellen. Somehow, somehow, they might be able to manage a party to properly introduce Dana to society.

FROM her own room on the south side of the house, Nancy had a different view of the garden. Its unkemptness had never troubled her, for it had been like that so long that she had almost forgotten it had ever been trimly landscaped, with decorative flower beds breaking the velvet stretches, a fountain tinkling musically in the center and great trees arching overhead.

There were voices under Nancy's window. Her grandmother's voice and that of young Jake, Sarah's grandson, who did odd jobs about the place and built the fire in winter for his "board and keep."

"Clear the weeds first, and then cut the grass," Mrs. Cameron was directing. "And then I'll show you about pruning the shrubbery. If you need any help, you might get Alex to come in for two days. He's doing some work outside now, since the Merrins are away for the summer."

"Couldn't I go with you, Nancy?" Dana asked.

"Don't need no help, Miss Cameron," Jake objected. "Clean up this air garden all by myself. And meek that $2 clear. Can do it easy all my self, Miss."

Grandmother spending $2 to have the garden cleaned up! Nancy stepped to the window and stared down in amazement.

There was the gaunt old figure in rusty black, a huge sun hat of a vintage of years before, on her head. Now and then she lifted one hand and pointed with a long finger at some shrub or plant.

Nancy's black eyes sparkled, and she smiled. At the moment she looked almost pretty. And then the old, contemptuous curve pulled her mouth down at the corners.

Of course, Dana was belated all this. The garden had been good enough for her all these years. Grandmother had never sent Jake into it with pruning shears before. It was Dana, who had always had everything. And now she had come here, and Grandmother and silly Aunt Ellen would probably turn the place upside down for her!

At the moment, Sarah's voice rang out loudly: "Miss, you're going to get death on that damp ground. 'Taint no time to be trompin' round 'mong them weeds. You'll be down in bed tomorrow."

"And serve her right for being such a fool," Nancy thought grimly. Even Sarah's voice, she decided, had a different quality. As though she were excited about something.

There was a current stirring that threatened to upset the established calm of the place.

NANCY picked up her book and tried to concentrate, but it was

Monday morning. The men will meet at the City Hall and will be transported to the park in trucks.

The first job will be to tear up the roads in the park and get them ready for gravel. Signs have been posted to the effect that the park is now closed to traffic and those who drive over its roads do so at their own risk. The roads will be torn up and much of the chunder packing removed.

A new road will be cut around the playground south of the bridge. By this arrangement the drinking fountains will no longer be on one side of the road and the playground apparatus on the other, and the safety of children will be assured. The new road will turn to the right immediately south of the bridge and follow the lake shore to a point where it can be safely turned back to the main drive.

Members of the park board and the city engineer met at the park yesterday afternoon to stake out the new road. The park project includes resurfacing of some six miles of road and drives in Nichols park. The roads will be gravelled this winter, and in the spring will be given a coating of oil, which will provide a hard smooth surface.

The project also includes the building of an addition to the dining pavilion. The house and barn on the park and north of the Vandallia road will be torn down and the material used to build the annex to the dining room. A new concrete floor will be laid in the west side of the present room, and also for the new addition. When all is finished, users of the pavilion will have for their convenience four large rooms instead of two.

The land now occupied by the house and barn will be seeded with alfalfa to the edge of the lake and will be properly cared for. The work to be done at the park is expected to keep the big force of men busy all winter.

Upsets Only Worry
For Big Ten HeadsOhio State and Minnesota
Headed Into Last Game
with Long Odds

By WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago—(AP)—All the football explosives left in Big Ten arsenals will be touched off tomorrow, probably with Minnesota and Ohio State accounting for the loudest reports.

If everything goes as expected on the final day of the campaign, Minnesota will defeat Wisconsin and Ohio State will take charge of Michigan, to share the 1935 championship. The Gophers, rated as the midwest's most powerful aggregation, will be after their seventeenth consecutive triumph along with stretching their string of engagements without defeat to 24. There is no reason for thinking they can't do it at the expense of the Badgers.

Ohio State, its fine season marred only by that hectic Notre Dame defeat, figures to conquer Michigan for the second consecutive year. However, the Wolverines, always at their toughest against Ohio, might regain form that brought victories over Indiana, Wisconsin, Columbia and Pennsylvania, to wind up with an upset victory.

While the other three games have no championship trimmings, there should be plenty of fireworks. Northwestern, the most improved team in the conference, tackles Iowa's dangerous eleven at Evanston; Purdue and Indiana meet for possession of the "Old Oakin' Bucket" at Bloomington, and Chicago and Illinois play off another installment of their ancient series at Champaign.

The battle at Evanston promises to develop into a thrilling scoring affair, with slippery Oze Simmons and Dick Crayne pacing the Hawkeyes attack, and blond Don Heap, Wally Cruick and Hugh Durrall carrying the mail for Northwestern. Simmons made headlines for the first time against the Wildcats last year, running spectacularly to lead the Hawkeyes to a 20 to 7 victory.

Jay Berwanger, the standout among a lot of fine Big Ten backs, will play his last game for Chicago. On his ability to shake loose rest Maroon hopes for a victory. The Illini, however, will be favored mildly.

The Hoosier classic has all the makings for a rousing struggle. Purdue has its ups and downs, but appears to be up again. Indiana has near peak form in whipping Chicago last week.

Western Rose Bowl
Team Not ParticularBoth Coaches Say They Favor
Meeting Best Team in Annual Battle

San Francisco—(AP)—Willingness to take on any football team in the country if they win the Western Rose Bowl bid was expressed by rival coaches today as California and Stanford neared their "big game" tomorrow at Palo Alto.

The first official disclosure that parties which may be the most interested held no brief for procedure which always has called for a visiting Rose Bowl contender from east of the Mississippi river was made by Coach Leonard (Stub) Allison of California and Claude (Tiny) Thornhill of Stanford.

The field, so far as the coaches are concerned, is thrown wide open. It can be either of the two strong Texas universities, Southern Methodist or Texas Christian, as well as the still unbeaten Da-mouth team.

With eastern and southern teams tumbling into the ranks of the beaten, and other eligibles on the eastern half of the continent turning thumbs down on post-season play, there has been an increasing clamor for an eleven from the southwest.

This Building is Sixty-One Years Old; A New One is Needed to Safeguard Pupils

In the spring of 1874, the city fathers purchased land in the third ward for the erection of what is now known as Franklin grade school. The building was finished for the fall term of the same year. This picture reflects the celebration of its 61st, and possibly, its last birthday.

In some instances, two generations have tramped its wooden stairways and absorbed their share of the three "R's" in rooms that were none too well lighted, breathing air that depended on temperamental nature for proper ventilation, and of recent years, especially, studying in rooms that by all modern fire requirements were of the condemned classification.

A new building would improve 50% on the state lighting requirement to safeguard young eyesight; will have controlled heating to produce constant temperature at all times; will be of complete fireproof construction; and will have a room for a health nurse whose regular inspections provide saving in medical care for the parent.

There will be a gymnasium and an auditorium that may be used for community purposes. This school will be so equipped and constructed as to provide for a 50% increase in the school population.

The success of the special bond issue election on Tuesday will mean taking advantage of the Federal grant that will change this picture of Franklin school for the safety, convenience, improved education and the ultimate economy of its educational program.

Monday—3:00-5:30.—The Rhoads Memorial Library will be open. Miss Georgia Fairbank, librarian.

4:00.—The Wetomachick and Chehalo Camp Fires will meet.

7:30.—Boy Scouts Troop 6 will meet. Tuesday—Ladies Aid Thanksgiving Market.

The Guild will meet at the church for a pot-luck luncheon at noon followed by comfort tacking in the afternoon.

MAKE PLANS FOR I. C. JUNIOR PROM HERE

Don Hadley, chairman of the Illinois College Junior Prom, has had the Prom budget approved by both the junior class and the Forum and has contracted two well known orchestras, Lop Jarman with the Showboat in St. Louis and the Four Clefs, a popular colored orchestra from Springfield.

This outstanding social event will be held Friday, December 13, in the New Dunlap Hotel where the entire first floor has been secured for dancing. This same plan was used by the junior class last year and proved very successful in handling the large number of couples.

In order to assure undisturbed music in all parts of the available dancing space, the prom committee has contracted these two orchestras, Lop Jarman who will be placed in the lobby of the hotel and the Four Clefs who will be in the ball room. The use of two orchestras will also eliminate the long intermissions and will provide constant and a greater variety of entertainment.

Don Hadley, a Springfield student who is manager of the football squad and a member of Sigma Pi, is being assisted by the committee composed of Alden Rexroat, Allen Burgo, Margaret Cronan, Don Krieger, Bill Huxl, Russ Speuhr, Dorothy Dean Baldwin and Johnson Kanady.

Mrs. W. H. Buchanan of Versailles was calling on friends here yesterday.
